

Yarmouk University

Faculty of Arts

Master's in Sociology

Program Overview

The Master's program in Sociology was started in 2001/2002. It works to prepare social researchers, counselors, and social workers by providing students with theoretical and practical knowledge, which is what various social institutions and the local community in general need, and to work on excellence in teaching and learning, and to contribute to the development and modernization of Jordanian society, by disseminating and developing scientific research skills to understand and study. Analyzing social problems and proposing appropriate ways to solve them.

Program Objectives

- Preparing and qualifying trained scientific competencies in the field of sociology who are able to compete with their peers from other universities to obtain better job opportunities.
- Disseminating and developing scientific research skills in understanding the structure and functions of society and solving social problems on scientific foundations.
- Strengthening partnership with the local community through training and supervisory events.

Program Importance

The importance of the program is that it keeps pace with offering courses that address various emerging issues at the level of human society, and the problems resulting from them.

Targeted Groups and Accepted Majors

Bachelor's degree in sociology, social work, social work, or other humanitarian disciplines.

Job Areas

Social institutions concerned with issues (family and childhood, juveniles and the elderly, women and youth, asylum and violence, crime, people with disabilities... etc.), educational institutions such as (schools), health institutions such as (hospitals), and security institutions such as (correction and rehabilitation centers and prisons). Family Protection Administration) and judicial institutions such as (family reform offices).

Credit Hours and Tuition Fees

Total credit hours: 33 credit hours

Tuition fees for Jordanian students: 70JOD per credit hour

Tuition fees for international students: 225USD per credit hour

Study Plan Overview

33 credit hours (comprehensive track)

Compulsory department requirements: 24 credit hours

Department elective requirements: 9 credit hours

33 credit hours (thesis track)

Compulsory department requirements: 15 credit hours

Department elective requirements: 9 credit hours

9 credit hours (thesis)

Contact Information

Tel: 027211111 ext: 3663

Sociology.dept@yu.edu.jo