

Yarmouk University
Faculty of Educational Sciences

Master's in Arabic Language Curriculum and Instruction

Program Overview

The Master's Program in Arabic Language Curriculum and Instruction is an important step towards improving educational practices and increasing understanding of Arabic as a scientific and cultural language. The program's goal is to prepare students to analyze and evaluate educational curricula using current and effective methodologies, as well as to develop creative teaching tactics that improve students' learning experiences. The program includes a comprehensive examination of educational theories and their applications in Arabic language instruction, as well as the use of technology in teaching and learning to improve access to knowledge. The program also promotes advanced scientific research that helps to increase knowledge and improve educational methods.

Graduates of this specialization can play an important role in improving the level of Arabic language teaching in a variety of educational contexts, including university teaching, educational curriculum development, and teacher training, thereby contributing to greater cultural understanding and civilizational reconciliation between peoples.

Program Vision

The Master's Program in Arabic Language Curriculum and Instruction aims to raise the standard of Arabic language instruction at higher education levels and to strengthen students' comprehension of the language as a cultural and scientific language that affects the entire world. The program's goal is to prepare students to become leading experts in curriculum analysis and development, as well as creative teaching strategies that improve students' educational experiences.

Program Mission

It aims to lead the way in attaining innovation and quality in the field of Arabic language instruction by putting the finest teaching strategies into practice and leveraging technology to improve knowledge accessibility. In order to fulfill the demands of various civilizations, the program also aims to improve scientific research and ongoing curriculum development. It also aims to promote cross-cultural understanding and civilizational reconciliations.

Program Objectives

- Providing learners full, crucial, and profound understanding of Arabic language courses and teaching methods
- Teaching students how to research, analyze, plan, evaluate, and use technology in Arabic language curricula and teaching methods.
- Encouraging learners to work independently and take responsibility for managing professional practices connected to producing Arabic language curricula and teachers.
- Increasing students's moral awareness so that they may make objective decisions using a scientific manner.
- Enhancing the academic and professional self-perception of students enables them to pursue further professional growth.

Program Outcomes

After completing the program, the student should be able to

- Demonstrate the capacity to address sociological and ethical issues concerning Arabic language curricula and teacher development in a balanced and objective manner.
- Identify current issues and developments in Arabic language courses.
- Use learning methodologies to stay current with advancements in Arabic language curricula and train teachers.
- Write a scientific thesis that adheres to scientific research norms and ethics in order to get a master's degree in Arabic language curricula and teaching methods.

Program Importance

The Master's Program in Arabic Language Curriculum and Instruction provides students with an invaluable opportunity to get in-depth and comprehensive experience in teaching Arabic. The program focuses on helping students develop their skills in analyzing and constructing an efficient educational curriculum that meets the needs of various groups while also increasing their grasp of Arabic as a cultural and scientific language. Students learn how to evaluate and enhance existing educational programs by taking specialized and varied courses that use advanced research methods. The program also allows students to delve into case studies and experimental research that help to build educational practices and improve their efficacy. Furthermore, the program provides an ideal environment for students to improve their teaching and cultural communication skills, preparing them to work as specialized Arabic language teachers at various educational levels, as well as educational consultants who contribute to improving the quality of teaching and learning in schools.

Targeted Groups and Accepted Majors

To be eligible for admission to this program, applicants must:

1. Fulfil the Higher Education Council's requirements.
2. According to the department's foundations, the bachelor's degree must be in a field that entitles him to specialized study in the department he wants to enter.
3. Completing the language proficiency test necessary to enrol in the program in compliance with the Higher Education Council's rulings.
4. Any additional terms approved by the relevant councils and committees.

Job Areas

The Master's program in Arabic Language Curriculum and Instruction offers graduates opportunities for employment in a variety of sectors, including:

1. Educational supervisor for the Ministry of Education, private schools, and UNRWA schools.
2. An educational entrepreneur capable of developing and guiding educational initiatives to their desired outcomes.
3. A university faculty member or institute/college administrator.

Credit Hours and Tuition Fees

The Master's program requires students to complete 33 credit hours.

The cost per credit hour is:

- Jordanian students: 70 Jordanian Dinars.
- Non-Jordanian students: 225 US Dollars.

Study Plan Overview

A master's degree is awarded in the field of Arabic Language Curriculum and Instruction after completing the following requirements:

1. Fulfilment of the degree requirements.
2. Completion of any remedial courses determined by the Graduate Studies Committee in the department.
3. Completion of a minimum of 33 credit hours at the 600 level, with successful completion and a cumulative GPA of no less than 75%.

Contact Information

Department: Curriculum and Teaching Methods

Phone: +962-2-27211111, ext. 3740

Email: curricula.dept@yu.edu.jo